

COLORADO
Department of Education

Social Communication and Engagement

Support Students with Autism and other Complex Communication Disorders

SAVE
THE DATE

Do you want to learn how to increase communicative engagement while decreasing unwanted behavior?

Social Communication and Engagement Triad (SCET)

About

The SCET Triad is a 6-week, self-paced online course with 6 modules to learn about the interconnectedness between communication and engagement.

This course is intended for educators who support students with autism spectrum disorder or other complex communication disorders

Topics

Explore the following foundational principles and intervention considerations:

- theory of mind
- joint attention
- shared control
- use of environment
- social and daily routines
- motivation
- shared control
- emotional regulation
- building relationships

Details

Dates

SCET opens July 27th, 2020 and runs through September 7th, 2020.

Format & Credits

Take the course in the comfort of your choice. SCET is provided in an online format and will provide 7.5 hours of professional learning.

Syllabus

Want to learn more about what this course has to offer. Check out the Syllabus Link to see the course syllabus with learner outcomes and assignments.

Registration

Use the Registration Link to enroll. Registration is open July 6 through July 17, 2020. Sessions are offered twice per year. Limited to 35 participants.